

Mphasis Versant:

A paper will be given which consist of a Phone number, a token number, and instructions for the test. The test consists of 6 sections.

1) Read the Sentence— There will be 12 sentences in the given paper. The computer may ask you to read any sentence randomly.

The voice goes like this :

Read sentence no. 3 ,, now read sentence no. 7 and so on till all the sentences are covered . You have to read immediately after the instruction.

2) Repeat the sentence— You have to recall the sentence as you heard.

e.g., Mr. American Accent will say like this

=> Thomas was beaten to death over his blasphemous remark on god.

=> Mary will take care of the dishes, don't worry.

3) Answer the Question— In this section , either the question will contain the answer or it would be an easy one. e.g.,

Q1) What would you do with a Paper-weight. Press the paper or play football.

Ans) Press the paper (It takes a super-human to think otherwise!!! Lol)

Q2) What do you call a man who can speak two languages?

Ans) Bilingual

4) Rearrange the words— Yeah this, will be difficult .

One has to rearrange the words in the sentence so that they logically make sense. e.g,

Q1) In the night plays johny basketball

Ans) Johny plays basketball in the night.

Q2) Cats and dogs out there it's raining.

Ans) It's raining cats and dogs out there.

5) Story Retelling — You just have to reproduce the short-stories that you heard.

6) 40-Sec-thing — In this section one has to speak for around 40sec on a given topic.

Q1) What do you think who has contributed more to the human development. Mobile or Computer?

Ans) Though they both act as the wheels of wagon for human development , yet i think computers have contributed more.....

Q2) A group of teenagers are sitting in front of you and you have to deliver a presentation to them. On what topic would you like to deliver the presentation?

Ans) Since they are teenagers I would like to deliver a motivational-lecture by narrating some of the Inspiring stories ...